Dr. Andrea Tory was born and raised in Metro Detroit. She has been in practice for more than a decade and specializes exclusively in endodontic procedures. Dr. Tory is a Diplomate of the American Board of Endodontics, meaning that she is board certified. Only a small number of endodontists in the United States receive Diplomate certification as it is earned only by endodontists who pass additional didactic and clinical examinations by the American Board of Endodontics and who demonstrate an exemplary level of knowledge and clinical expertise.

Dr. Tory is married to Mike, a mechanical engineer at a local manufacturing plant. They have two children, Noah and Nathan, and two rescue cats. When she is not in the office, she's usually busy chasing around her two little boys. Like many moms of young children, she doesn't have much free time, but when the opportunity arises, she really enjoys a good nap.

At Parkside Endodontics, we know that root canal therapy can be an anxiety-provoking procedure. It's our goal to painlessly guide our patients through every step in the process while treating them with the same honesty and compassion that we'd provide to our own families.
